NEW OXFORD'S WATER SYSTEM

Water Supply Used by New Oxford Found to be Unsafe and Council Decides to Sink Artesian Wells. Contract Let.

Following the report from the State Department of Health that New Oxford's water supply was not pure and the recommendation from the state authorities that a filtration plant be installed, the borough council investigated the cost of such a plant to find that the outlay would be more than they wished to expend. As a result it has been determined to sink artesian wells to furnish the town water supply and land near the creamery has been purchased from C. A. Diehl and the contract given to Lower Brothers, of Table Rock, for the construction of the wells.

This action has followed the typhoid fever visitation under which the town has suffered for the past few months. The number of patients amounted to several score but the physicians of the town were most successful in coping with the disease and only one death from typhoid resulted.

Several visits were made by representatives of the State Department of Health to ascertain the source of the infection and the condemnation of the present water supply was the final outcome.

Until the wells are sunk and sufficient water supply obtained to fill the needs of the town most of the people of New Oxford are using water from the regular mains which they have been advised to boil.

BARLOW

Barlow, Oct. 10.—The farmers of this section are busily engaged at their usual work of the fall. Many of them are just finishing sowing wheat while others are cutting and husking corn.

Rev. E. Stockslager is attending the sessions of the West Pennsylvania Synod at Gettysburg the beginning of this week. Later in the week Rev. Mr. Stockslager will attend the State Sunday School convention at New Castle.

Mrs. Harry Conover, of Washington, D. C., is visiting for some time at the home of J. William Keefeauver.

The new furnace will be completed in Mt. Joy church in a short time.

FRIGHTENED McKNIGHTSTOWN

Residents of McKnightstown were frightened Monday by the presence here of a negro who was acting in a peculiar way. A number of men took him in charge until Charles H. Wilson arrived. Mr. Wilson placed him in the county jail.

DRIVING ACCIDENT ON TOWN STREETS

Henry Boyd, of Guldens, and his Daughter Thrown from Vehicle when Bicycle Rider Collides with their Blind Horse.

The collision of an unknown bicycle rider and a blind horse on West Middle street Monday afternoon resulted in a runaway in which Henry Boyd, of Guldens Station, and his daughter, Miss Lela Boyd, were thrown from the vehicle in which they were riding, Mr. Boyd being rather painfully hurt.

They were returning from Fairfield, their former home, to Guldens and were driving on Middle street. As they crossed Washington street four young men on bicycles, said to have been going at a very rapid pace, came down the street and one of them, falling to avoid the team ran straight into the horse. The bicycle rider was not hurt and disappeared immediately after the accident.

The horse, which was blind, naturally became frightened and before Mr. Boyd could bring it under control had run up on the pavement at the home of Pius G. Breighner, throwing out both of the occupants. Mr. Boyd's head struck the stone steps and the wagon passed over him. The horse was stopped only after it had gotten into the mortar box in front of the new houses of C. William Ziegler.

The workmen there found Miss Boyd tangled up in the wheels but practically unhurt. Both she and her father were taken to Dr. J. R. Dickson's nearby. The wound which Mr. Boyd sustained required five stitches to close.

Little damage was done to the harness and none to the horse or vehicle.

SYNOD MEETS

The first session of the annual meeting of the West Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran church was held in the College Church on Monday evening. Rev. Herbert C. Alleman was installed as professor of Hebrew at the Theological Seminary and the synodical communion was held. This morning routine matters were taken up and representatives of the various church activities were heard. The election of officers for the coming year was held and resulted in the selection of Rev. G. M. Diefenderfer, of Carlisle, president; Rev. U. E. Apple, Red Lion, secretary; Rev. Albert Bell, York, treasurer. The retiring president, Rev. J. B. Wolf, of Glen Rock, gave his report during the morning session.

CANDIDATE WITHDRAWS

In another column appears the announcement of the withdrawal of C. W. Gardner, Republican candidate for register and recorder. This, of course, assures the election of E. H. Belzheimer.

The nominees for county offices are losing no time in pushing their campaign for election. Owing to the change made by the legislature in the date for holding the primaries there is but little more than a month between the primaries and the general election, thus necessitating some quick stepping on the part of candidates who want to canvass the county before the casting of the final ballots.

ANDREW GOODENBERGER

Andrew Goodenberger, formerly of Hanover, died in York, on Sunday from a complication of diseases, aged about 70 years. He is survived by one brother, Jacob H. Goodenberger, of Berwick township.

Funeral Tuesday, October 10th, at 10 a. m., interment at Bair's meeting house. Services by Rev. J. C. Miller. The funeral left Menges Mills at 5 a. m.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Miss Bernette Rinehart, of near town, was taken to Philadelphia Monday afternoon for an operation for appendicitis which was performed Monday night.

FREE LECTURE COURSE SERIES

Lectures in the Free Course to be Given at College this Year. A Continuation of Last Year's Popular Course.

The free lecture course held at college last year for the students of the institution and the people of town will be continued this winter and an attractive series of eight lectures has been announced. It will be recalled that the lectures last year were well attended and very much enjoyed. Two of this year's course will be given before Christmas and the remainder at intervals of two weeks after the midyear vacation. The list as announced is as follows:

Nov. 28—Rev. E. Meister, D. D., of Lancaster, Subject "Ben Hur," illustrated with one hundred stereoscopic views. Dr. Meister was given the degree of doctor of divinity at the inauguration of President Granville last October.

Dec. 12—Dr. Karl J. Grimm. Subject "Christ in Art."

Jan. 9—Dr. Karl J. Grimm and Harold S. Lewars, "An Hour in German Poetry and Song."

Jan. 23—Rev. A. B. B. VanOrmer, Paed. D., of Shippensburg. Subject: "The Pedagogical Significance of Whittier's 'In School Days.'" Rev. Mr. Van Ormer is a graduate of the local institutions and well known here.

Feb. 6—Dr. Philip M. Bickle. Subject: "The Roman Boy from Birth to Marriage."

Feb. 27—Prof. Benjamin F. Schappelle. Subject: "From Berlin to Geneva." Illustrated.

March 12—Rev. Prof. Abdel R. Wentz. Subject not yet announced.

March 26—Prof. Richard S. Kirby. Subject: "The Water Supply Problem in New York City."

INSPECTING ORCHARDS

Fifty three State College students, composing the class in horticulture at that institution, arrived in the upper end of the county this morning with Prof. W. J. Wright, head of the department of horticulture, in charge. They were taken in teams of Holtzworth and Hoffman through the Adams County apple belt, inspecting a number of the orchards on their way. They arrived in Gettysburg in time to take supper at Hotel Gettysburg and will leave at 5.45 for Waynesboro, intending to visit the Franklin County peach orchards Wednesday. Thursday the Tonoloway orchards at Hancock will be the point of inspection and they will spend the last part of the week in Washington.

PROTEST AGAINST UNCLEAN FAIR

Resolutions, in which a protest is made against the action of the York County Agricultural Society in permitting gambling and games of chance, immoral shows and other repellant attractions at the county fair last week, were adopted unanimously at a meeting of the York Ministerial Association Monday morning. The resolutions also demand that the state appropriation of $1,000 given annually by the Pennsylvania state department of agriculture, and the money appropriated to the fair association by the York county commissioners be withheld until such time as the society returns to its "clean fair" policy.

SHERIFF GETS HIS PRISONER

Following the suspended sentence of the Fulton county court, Sheriff Jefferson Harris formed a posse and Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock captured Russell Sipes, who is under indictment for arson at his home and lodged him in the Fulton county jail Monday evening.

It is the impression in McConnellsburg that since he has recaptured his prisoner that many of Harris' friends will sign a petition asking Judge Swope to suspend sentence. The sheriff is liable to a sentence of not more than a year imprisonment and a fine not exceeding $500.

IN TROUBLE IN WAYNESBORO

The Waynesboro Record says: "George E. Riggs, William Morgan and Leon Bourgeois, who registered as from Gettysburg, in a local hotel, Sunday, became very disorderly in Payton V. Harbaugh's cafe in the Walker block, in the evening. They would not heed the advice given them and Mr. Harbaugh ejected them. In doing this one of the men hit and kicked him. Mr. Harbaugh summoned Policeman Ditch and the three men were arrested and taken before Magistrate Potter, who fined each $10 and costs.

"Mr. Harbaugh then preferred a charge of assault and battery against the fellow who kicked him. This was settled for $5.

"The cost of the jollification to the men was $2.25."

ARRESTED IN YORK

John Valentine, of Gettysburg, a colored attendant at the racing stables on the York fair grounds last week, has been arrested by Detective Stroman charged with the theft of several articles belonging to H. M. Eldridge. The York horseman alleges that Valentine stole from him a suit of clothing, a horse blanket, and a raincoat, all valued at about $20. The defendant was committed to jail for a hearing.

FREE SAMPLE CURED OLD PERSON'S BOWEL TROUBLE

One of the most remarkable proofs of the unusual laxative merit contained in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is that it is effective not only in people in the prime of life, but at the extremes of ages. As many letters are received from mothers regarding the cures of children, as from men and women of sixty, seventy and eighty years of age. It must be truly a wonderful laxative.

In the cure of constipation and bowel trouble in old people it has no equal. It corrects the constipation, dispels the headache, biliousness, gas, drowsiness after eating, etc. People advancing in years should see to it that their bowels move freely, and if they do not take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can prolong your life by healthy bowel action. Clogged bowels invite disease. Women about to pass the menstrual period cannot do better than use Syrup Pepsin several times a week until the system has settled to its future condition.

Among the strongest supporters of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are Mr. W. G. Zorn of New Decatur, Ala., and Mr. George S. Spaulding of the National Soldiers' Home, Kansas, both elderly men. The regular size bottles can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar, but a free sample bottle can be had by sending your address to the doctor.

Wrong Interpretation.

A city official tells of a conversation he and a Spanish maiden had when he was a sergeant, with troops stationed on the island of Porto Rico.

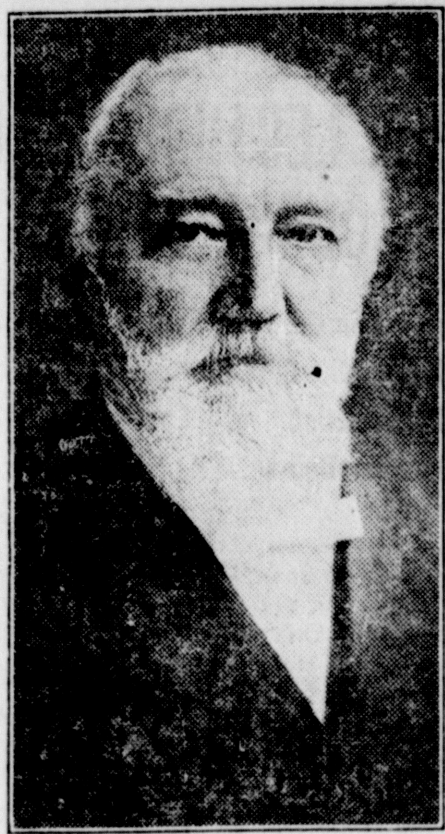

"The senorita," said the official, "had become infatuated with a certain soldier named Harry, and she had learned his name. One morning she approached me and asked:

"Where Harry?"

"He was asleep, and I laid my head on my hand and closed my eyes to tell the girl. She misunderstood the signs and, with a cry, pointed to heaven. I shook my head and pointed down. The senorita raised her hands in silent supplication. Later Harry was seen on guard, and the girl looked at me reproachfully."—Indianapolis News.

FAST DRIVING IN FAIRMOUNT

Bergdoll Smashes Philadelphia
Track Course Record.

300,000 SEE AUTO ROAD RACE

Amateur, In a Benz, Had a Hot Contest With Professional Drivers and Lowered All Records to Win.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10. — The fourth annual 200-mile automobile road race of the Quaker City Motor club was held over the Fairmount park course and was pronounced the most successful ever held.

Over 300,000 people cheered the daring drivers as they piloted their cars at tremendous speed through the groves along the Schuylkill and along the "Hairpin" and "S" driveways.

Driving his own ninety-horse power Benz, the No. 8, Erwin Bergdoll, the Philadelphia amateur, won the race. He set a terrific pace and led practically all the way. He covered the first lap of 8 1-10 miles in 7:34, which equaled his own record made in practice. On the second lap he drove the distance in 7:28, setting up new figures. He averaged 63 miles an hour for the 200 miles. His time was 3 hours, 18 minutes and 41 and 35-100 seconds.

Second in the gruelling contest, the most exciting ever run in Philadelphia, was Spence Wishart, a newcomer, who drove the No. 17 Mercedes. Wishart once headed Bergdoll, and held the lead for three laps, but he had to recede before the superior speed and skill of his opponent and fight it out for second place. His time was 3 hours, 20 minutes and 11 and 12-100 seconds.

Third was Ralph Mulford, in the No. 3 Lozier, who lost the 1910 race to Len Zengle by six seconds. Mulford played in hard luck again this year. He was a hot candidate for second place, pushing Wishart to the limit, until he had to stop for gas and oil in the finish stages of the race. This put him so far back, though he wasted little time, that the best he could do was nose out the field for the third honors. His time was 3 hours, 21 minutes, 52 and 78-100 seconds.

Division of Prizes.

Besides the grand prize of $2500, won by Mr. Bergdoll, there were four division prizes of $1000 each. In landing the big prize Mr. Bergdoll also captured the honors in division 6—C, in which were two Flats.

First prize in division 5—C went to Wishart, in his Mercedes, when he won second in the big event. In his class were the National No. 2, Len Zengle's; Mulford's Lozier, Harry Grant's No. 9, Lozier, and the Mercedes of Wishart's own teammate, Willie Wallace.

In class 4—C Louis Disbrow, in the No. 16 National, won the $1000. He had as division rivals Gil Anderson, in a Stutz, and Donald Herr, also a National driver.

In division 3—C Hughie Hughes, in the No. 11 Mercer, pushed his way into the money, even if nowhere in the big race. He had as class rivals his teammate, Ralph De Palma; Joe Jagersberger, in the Case; Basie, the Frenchman, in the No. 4 Cole, which did not finish at all, and Parker, in the No. 12, Ohio.

The No. 7 Case, piloted by Joe Jagersberger, hit a tree on Sweet Briar, but nobody was hurt and the Case, which is shaped like a cigar, got on the track and stayed there until it lost its carburetor on the river drive.

Wishart had a near accident at the Temperance fountain, when he stopped to change a tire in the twenty-second lap. His mechanic, Robert Willoughby, was not quick enough and Wishart went on without him. It was reported that Willoughby had been thrown out, but the true situation soon became known.

Thrown at "Dip of Death."

While tearing through the "Dip of Death" for the fifteenth time, Ralph Mulford, driving the first Lozier entry, threw off his mechanic, William Chanler. By that seemingly good fortune that hovers over some auto racers, Chanler landed on his hands and knees in a soft stretch of turf and was practically unhurt.

Mulford stopped his machine within a hundred feet or so and, jumping out, ran back towards Chanler. The crowd, which had gone quite sick with horror as it saw Chanler sail off into the air, had not yet recovered its breath before Chanler was on his feet and running towards the racing car.

After a hasty glance at the engine, both Mulford and Chanler climbed aboard, and with a snort of the exhaust dashed on their way again. The incident took hardly more than forty seconds. The crowd was dazed at the rapidity of action on the part of the daring driver and his aid, but woke up in time to cheer them as they took up the chase after the flying Bergdoll.

The accident was caused by Mulford making too sharp a turn in an effort to gain a few yards on Bergdoll. Instead of following the route used by all the others he took an inside course and had to make such a sudden turn to avoid a bank beyond the railroad bridge that Chanler, who was leaning out, was sent flying off into space.

Rode to a Sure Death.

Jacques de Chastel, bishop of Soissons, had accompanied Louis IX. (St. Louis) on the African crusade and, finding that nothing had been accomplished and that the army was about to return in disgrace to France, refused to go, took leave of his friends, partook of the sacrament, mounted his horse fully equipped for battle and, in sight of the whole army, charged alone into the Saracen camp, where he was at once cut to pieces.

TROLLEY DIVES OFF BRIDGE

Motorman Was Carried Into River at Philadelphia and Drowned.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—A trolley car running at high speed around the curve leading to the draw on the Gray's Ferry bridge left the tracks and plunged through the guard rail into the Schuylkill river about sixty feet below.

Frank Goodwin, the motorman, was hurled into the river and killed. Michael Dolan, the conductor, was thrown upon the bridge from the rear platform and slightly injured. There were no passengers in the car.

The trucks of the car left the frame and sank to the river's bottom, but the upper part of the car, all the windows smashed, floated on its side and was tied to piling on the west bank of the Schuylkill river.

WILL CONFISCATE UNRIPE ORANGES

Secretary Wilson Puts Ban on Artificially Ripened Fruits.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The department of agriculture has prepared for confiscation of any shipments of unripe oranges or other unripe fruit from Florida.

Secretary Wilson, who has been in communication with the Florida agricultural authorities, announced that any attempts to ship artificially ripened fruit out of Florida or to "process" unripe fruit on its journey to the north would be the signal for government activity.

BAIL FOR CLAY AND OTHERS

Philadelphia Officials, Accused of Conspiracy, Waive Hearing.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Henry Clay, director of the department of public safety; Carl B. Zilenziger, city architect; John R. Wiggins and W. H. Walls, the last two being members of the contracting firm of John R. Wiggins & Co., were each held under $2500 bail on the charge of conspiring to defraud the taxpayers of Philadelphia.

The four men were formally notified of their arrest last Friday evening and waived a hearing before Magistrate Barrett.

Thomas Raeburn White, with Logan M. Bullitt, who spoke out the warrants charging conspiracy, was present to present testimony in the event of such a course being necessary. This proved not to be the case, however, and the proceedings merely consisted in entering the necessary bail bonds.

Centipede Is Harmless.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 10.—The centipede or "thousand legger," as it is better known in many parts of the state, is just as harmless in these latitudes as a butterfly, according to a bulletin which State Zoologist H. A. Surface has completed. The poison with which the Keystone State centipedes are credited is not strong enough to harm any one, but to enable them to overpower their ene mies or prey.

There are no bugs on you, of course not; but, oh, the garden! Root maggots are eating the onions, green worms are chewing the cabbage, beetles are gobbling the asparagus, bees are after the lettuce, snails are spoiling the celery, fleas are chewing the tomatoes, wireworms are boring the potatoes, slugs are after the beans, cutworms are swiping the corn, striped beetles are killing the cucumbers, grubs are after the strawberries, and red spiders are on the rose.

And, oh, the orchard! Steely beetles are after the grapevine, cankerworms

ONE OF WAR'S HEROES

A Story in Support of Peace
By F. A. MITCHELL
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Dignity is a valuable quality, at least one that commands respect. It is impossible to think of great men in an undignified position. There are also lesser lights.

The young have their heroes, whom they look upon as something above themselves, whom they surround with an illuminated atmosphere.

Osmund Edwards was one of these. When the Spanish war broke out, on account of his prominence among his fellows, no one thought of his going to Cuba as a mere private. He set about raising a company which he was to command. The young men all wished to be members of Edwards' company, and it was soon filled up and made a part of a crack regiment.

From the first the captain acted on the principle that a leader must be unapproachable. He did not associate on equal terms with his men, even those who had been his intimate friends since boyhood. While other company officers were approached familiarly and addressed as captain or lieutenant, it was always Captain Edwards, the speaker standing at attention and saluting respectfully.

Furthermore, when the regiment entered upon its first engagement Edwards fulfilled what was expected of him. While some other officers blushed or gave way, he kept his men up to their work, and at a critical moment, when some of the field officers proved incompetent and others were disabled, he seized a flag, sprang to the front and saved the regiment from panic. A newspaper in the United States published a picture of him waving the flag over his head and shouting to the men to "come on." This fixed him as a hero in the minds of every young person who had ever known him.

During the fighting about Santiago Edwards, who commanded his regiment as lieutenant colonel, lost a leg. When a warrior goes out to fight the battles of his country and comes home on a stretcher he is at the summit of his career. A burst of admiration, of sympathy, greets him, after which those about him begin to think of other matters. The war in which one distinguishes himself recedes. After awhile when asked in what battle he was wounded and he names it he is asked during which of several preceding wars that battle occurred. If he lives long enough he belongs to a past period with which the new generation has little or no real sympathy.

Edwards on his return occupied the pinnacle of heroism. The young men spoke of him with envy; the girls lavished favors upon him. That dignity which had always been natural to him added to his glory. Several romantic girls who were infatuated with the idea of being a hero's wife were ready to marry him. He chose Gwendolyn Emory, and she was very proud to be singled out from all the rest, with the expectation of being Mrs. Colonel Osmund Edwards.

But, as has been said, Edwards was at the top of the hill of fame. He could get no higher—at least in the profession of glory, for he was disabled. War has no use for men into whose careers she has bitten. They are to her like a joint that has been cut. The young colonel walked with his accustomed dignity, but he limped—in other words, he hobbled. Those who upon his return had looked upon him with admiration, which was really curiosity, now saw in him nothing but a hobble. Those who revered him made no special demonstration of their reverence. It had become an old story. In short, the hero's heroism, so far as concentrating the gaze of his fellow beings was concerned, was fading away.

His fiancée noticed this, and it troubled her. She had engaged herself to him as a hero and was now beginning to realize that she was tied to a hobble. One day she overheard a man say to another, referring to her fiancée, "That hobler wears a cork leg." "How did he lose his own?" "Don't know for certain. I've heard it got caught in a bear trap."

Miss Emory's heart sank within her. She began to see that the path of glory that don't lead to the grave lead to misfortune.

But the real pang came later. She and her lover were in the country. Edwards was a canoeist and begged her to go out with him in his canoe. While he was paddling he attempted to change position. To change position in a canoe with a cork leg is dangerous. The canoe was upset. Miss Emory was a splendid swimmer and, knowing that her lover could also swim, paid no attention to him till she had caught hold of the canoe. Then on looking about for him she saw only his leg floating. He was unable to sink it, and it sank him.

Miss Emory swam for him, but was unable to right him. The shore was near, and, seizing him by his cork leg, she towed him to safety.

The spell that had been thrown around him as a hero was dissolved, and he was now nothing but one of war's victims. She departed from him and in a few months wrote him that she had been mistaken in thinking she loved him.

A year later she married an army contractor who had got rich furnishing rotten supplies to the American army in Cuba.

A point decidedly in favor of the silo is its capacity for holding large amounts of fodder in a limited area. A silo having a size of 14 by 30 feet will receive into its capacious maw all the way from fifteen to twenty acres of corn, depending, of course, on the size and stand. In this one point of economy in storage space the silo is worthy of consideration.

INFLAMED BY ATTACK ON GIRL

Coatesville Posse Hunts Negro Assailant.

MUTTERINGS IN THE TOWN

Colored Man Attempted to Assault Schoolgirl, and After Struggle Was Frightened Off—Father Heads Posse

Coatesville, Pa., Oct. 10.—Only the escape of the colored assailant prevented a summary repetition of the scenes attending the lynching of Zack Walker, the colored murderer, that so recently aroused this section of Chester county.

The man attacked Miss Anna McElhaney, a fifteen-year-old Coatesville high school girl, while she was on her way home from school.

The news of the attempted assault upon the girl reached the town a short while after it happened and there was soon an air of menace on all sides. Chief of Police Unstead at once called all of his men into service and the streets look much as they did during the excitement that only recently died down.

The attack upon Miss McElhaney occurred about two miles outside of Coatesville at one of the loneliest spots along the road. It was only the girl's nerve and endurance and the opportune arrival of Frank Wynn in a buggy that saved her from harm.

Father Starts Posse.
 Ter assailed fled through the Wynn farm. The girl's father organized a posse of neighbors, which was largely increased by people from Coatesville.

Miss McElhaney is the daughter of William H. McElhaney. Her home is on the road from Cain to Mortonsville, near what is known as Cemetery Ridge. When she was little more than half way home the colored man, who was heavy set, sprang from a clump of bushes at her.

The girl broke from his grasp and started to run. The fiend pursued her and overtook her. Driven desperate and filled with frenzied fright, the girl swung at the man with her school books which she carried in a strap. With this unwieldy club the girl struck the man as he sought to bear her down.

All the while she was screaming and retreating before the dogged colored man, who, somewhat confused by the blows, followed clumsily. Finally the girl with a last desperate swing struck the man full in the face with the books. He gave a cry of pain and anger and started toward her more determinedly. The girl fled, but by this time the strain of the attack was beginning to tell on her and she became faint.

Help Arrives in Time.
 Just as she was collapsing a buggy, occupied by Mr. Wynn, appeared around a bend in the road. The horse was galloping and the farmer was urging it to the limit. He had heard the cries of the girl and was hurrying to her assistance as fast as his animal could take him.

When the colored assailant heard the hoofbeats he uttered a foul oath, and, turning, leaped over the fence and hurried across the meadow to a strip of woodland.

When Mr. Wynn drove up he found the girl a hysterical heap in the middle of the road. The girl was placed in the buggy and driven to her home. There her father, incensed at the attack, summoned all of the men on the place and, arming them, took a revolver and a shotgun himself and started in pursuit.

A call was sent for a Coatesville physician to attend the girl and the police were notified. The news of the affair quickly circulated and in a short time about half a hundred men had gone out from town to join in the search.

The woods and the surrounding country were carefully searched by the posse until nightfall. No trace was found, however, of the man. None could be found who had seen a strange colored man lurking in the vicinity.

Another Acquitted in Lynching.
 West Chester, Pa., Oct. 10.—Joseph Schofield, the fourth defendant, charged with murder in the lynching of Zack Walker at Coatesville, was put on trial here before Judge Butler and acquitted. This action was taken after District Attorney Gawthrop told the court that he could not ask for conviction without reasonable doubt, because the evidence of the chief witness was not corroborated. Judge Butler then directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

40 Men Entombed by Explosion.
 Telluride, Colo., Oct. 10.—A dozen men were injured, some fatally, and forty others were entombed in the Lewis mine, near here, following the explosion of half a ton of dynamite. The explosion was caused by fire which wrecked the shaft. Rescue gangs are trying to reach the entombed men.

 New Haven, Conn., Oct. 10.—The spread of glanders in this city has been so severe that a single owner has lost twenty-seven horses, including a prize pair, called the best team in the state.

FINDS BIG SHORTAGE IN NAVY YARD

Over $3,000,000 Worth of Property is Missing.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer has received a report from the Washington navy yard, showing a shortage of $3,288,270 between the material actually on hand and the amount on the books.

As a complete inventory had not been taken for more than twenty-five years, Mr. Meyer directed that the general storekeeper of the yard make a complete record of all material on hand, which showed the large discrepancy.

Mr. Meyer says that in his opinion this shortage is due to the improper accounting system, under which material was issued without obtaining an invoice in return. During the Spanish war, for instance, there were many rush orders, and ordnance material was often sent to the vessels of the fleet without its transfer being recorded on the books of the yard.

Under the new accounting system, according to the experts of the navy department, such a shortage could not occur.

SUICIDE AFTER WEDDING

Soldier Kills Himself Shortly After His Marriage.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 10.—Second Lieutenant John R. Lynch, Third cavalry, U. S. A., who was married at 1 o'clock in the morning in Fort Sam Houston after routing an army chaplain from bed, killed himself in his quarters while his messmates were at breakfast. He shot himself twice, first near the heart and again through the brain.

The young lady he married is Gladys Caruthers, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Estelle Caruthers. The officer and the young girl were apparently greatly infatuated.

To his brother officers, however, the wedding was as great a surprise as the suicide, because Lynch had mentioned his attachment to a young woman in Los Angeles, Cal., where his father, W. C. Lynch, and three brothers live.

Lynch was twenty-six years old and was commissioned from the ranks a year ago. He was in debt to the extent of $1200, chiefly for the outlay of clothing and horses required by an officer in the mounted service.

33 Pills Kill Baby.
 Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—Jacob Gomb, two years old, of 1341 North Sixth street, ate thirty-three patent stomach pills and a few hours later died in the Children's Homeopathic hospital. The infant's father purchased a box of fifty pills and left them on a chair. In some manner the baby got the pills, and when discovered only seventeen remained in the box.

Had Maine Relics.

TAFT AT 4TH CORNER OF U. S.

Comments Upon Visits to Extremes of Country.

WASHINGTON'S GREAT GROWTH

Bellingham People Placed Exhibit of Pearns Apples, Potatoes and Peas Before the President.

Everett, Wash., Oct. 10.—President Taft's visit to Bellingham, Wash., extended his travels to the fourth corner of the country.

The president has now visited San Diego, on the extreme southwest; Florida, on the southeast; Eastport, Me., in the northeast, and this trip carried him within thirty miles of British Columbia in the northwest. He commented upon this to his Bellingham audience. He said:

"They have a saying in law in the proper construction on a written instrument that before you can reach the right conclusion about it you have got to take it up by its four corners, and I feel that having come to Bellingham is the last corner of the country. I understand its scope and enormous developments."

Mr. Taft is the first president to have visited Bellingham and the extreme northwest section of the country, and they took advantage of his one-day visit to impress upon him the great possibilities of the country. At breakfast Bellingham placed before him exhibits of apples that measured eight inches through, potatoes, any one of which must have made a meal for a family of five, and pears that put a cantaloupe to blush.

"You have a wonderful state," said the president. "It's increase in population in the last ten years was 170 per cent; increase in farm values was nearly 500 per cent, from $99,000,000 to over $500,000,000 in value. That ought to satisfy even the ambition of a citizen of Washington."

The president enjoyed a long ride along the border of Puget Sound. Though the sun was out, it rained intermittently about every half hour during the drive. There was a light sprinkle while the president addressed an outdoor audience of several thousand people, but the folk of Bellingham think nothing of rain. The president was inclined to be considerate of his audience because of the rain, but it was explained to him that he could hardly hit an audience for an hour there without seeing at least one shower, and the idea of shortening his address for such an every-day event as rain would not be listened to.

He spoke to the crowd of his intention to make the administration of the interior department more businesslike and told them of the Panama canal, in which the people are vitally interested, as they look to the cheaper water route through the isthmus as a great aid to their business.

The president had originally had in mind an address on reciprocity for Bellingham, it being his intention to come close to the Canadian border to speak on that topic. He said in his speech that he had thought of speaking on reciprocity under very different circumstances.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 10.—Word has been received from the International headquarters of the machinists at Washington and the International headquarters of the boilermakers at Kansas City calling a strike on the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. It is stated by the men that 60 per cent of those trades on the railway were locked out on Friday night by the company.

Negro Gets 15 Years For Robbery.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 10.—William Diamond, a negro desperado, was convicted in the Somerset court here of shooting and robbing Charles M. Duane, a merchant of this borough, as he was riding on the public highway in company with his wife in an automobile on the night of Aug. 24. He was sentenced by Judge C. E. Case to serve a term of fifteen years at hard labor in the state prison.

Knew He Was Right.

Michael Clancy, who lived in Goldfield, Nev., had returned to that mining city after a stay in Sacramento. He was telling his friend Finley about the place and was expatiating particularly on the glories of a new hotel building where he had aided construction by carrying the load.

At a cost of $1,500,000 there has been built at Calcutta an elevated water tank which is the largest of its kind in the world. It covers an area of two and one-third acres and holds 9,900,000 gallons of water.

Australia has cows enough to give each man, woman and child in the island continent three apiece, while the Argentine can do even better. There are five cattle to each inhabitant in the big South American republic.

Like almost every other great cathedral in the world, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York is not to its original architect. The Romanesque fashion in church building is waning; the Gothic is reasserting itself.

Some months ago a school of thirty-seven whales was stranded on the coast of Tasmania. A company was organized to take advantage of this accident, but in the meantime most of the oil escaped. The promoters, however, secured $40,000 worth of ambergris.

Nearly $3,000,000 was accumulated last year at the New York custom house in fines, penalties, offers in compromise and forfeitures. The duties collected on passengers' baggage were a little less than the above amount. No previous year shows a record approaching these figures.

Edgismen are supposed to be the most horsey people in the world, but they are far behind many other countries in regard to the number of horses per head of population. In this respect Australia leads the British empire, there being forty-five horses to every hundred people.

Multitudes in Japan live upon a diet of rice and fish. To vary this bill of fare a whale diet is becoming very popular. Hundreds of tons of whale meat are sold in the Japanese markets today. The flesh is said to be of very coarse, tasting something like venison, but with a flavor all its own.

Cotton seed, once a nuisance, valueless and despised, carted away from mills, dumped into streams or burned to get it out of the way, is now scrupulously cared for and sold everywhere to hundreds of eager cotton oil mills and is there turned into products valued at $100,000,000 annually.

Recently the sweet toned bell cast by Paul Revere, the famous old patriot, in 1816, which has long hung in the tower of the First Methodist church of Lynn, Mass., was cracked while being rung. It is now silent and may perhaps be recast. For ninety-five years it has rung for church services and celebrations.

Trackless trains are being experimented with in Yorkshire, England. It is anticipated that the low capital expenditure, which is 20 per cent less than that of a tramway system, will enable many districts not served at present to obtain an efficient service for passenger and freight traffic at a moderate cost.

A lively flash of lightning caused no little excitement and trouble the other day to the inhabitants of the Culicum district, Australia. It struck a fence near Walla Walla station and traveled along the wires for four miles, fusing the wires and throwing off sparks. About fifty fires were started, but were promptly extinguished.

TALES OF SPOOKS

The Deputy Death Sent to the Second Lord Lyttleton.

WARNED HIM AND VANISHED.

And Just When He Thought He Had "Jockeyed the Ghost" the Prediction Became a Fact—Story of a Specter Dog and the Legend of Lady Howard.

Belief in specters, phantoms and apparitions still lingers in many parts of England. We scoff at ghost stories as stuff that is "considered ridiculous by all persons of sound education and common sense," and yet mixed in with the legends of wraiths and hellhounds are some true tales that are hard to explain from the standpoint of natural cause and effect.

A strange story is told of the notorious second Lord Lyttleton, who is said to have been as evil as his father was the reverse. He died when in his prime under the following well attested circumstances: A few days before his death Lord Lyttleton saw enter his room a woman who told him that on the third day after her appearance he would die. He was very much frightened and extremely depressed by the occurrence, but on the morning of the third day his fears had abated somewhat, and he had to breakfast with him a party which included Lady Flood, Lord Fortescue and two of the Misses Amphlett, to whom he said, "If I live over tonight I shall have jockeyed the ghost, for this is the third day." In the forenoon the party set out to Pitt Place, Lord Lyttleton's country seat near Epsom, and were not long arrived when his lordship had a suffocating fit, but recovered sufficiently to dine with his friends at 5 o'clock.

By what is described as "a friendly trick" the watches and clocks throughout the house were advanced half an hour. The evening passed, and Lord Lyttleton's spirits recovered their usual buoyancy. At half past 11 he retired, and, according to his valet's report, "he kept every now and then looking at his watch. . . . Within a minute or two of 12 by his watch he asked to look at mine. . . . His lordship then put both to his ear to make certain that they went. When it was near the real hour of 12 he said: 'Come; I'll wait no longer. Get me my medicine. I'll take it and try to sleep.' It appears that the valet stirred the draft with a toothpick, and this angered Lord Lyttleton, who sent him for a spoon. When the man returned he found his master in a fit. Instead of attempting to relieve him he ran for help, and when he returned with the alarmed guests Lord Lyttleton was dead.

A peculiar class of apparition in which many persons believed is that of specter dogs, which are again divided into three kinds: (1) Black dogs that are fiends in disguise; (2) evil spirits that hunt souls in this guise; (3) spirits of the wicked departed made to take this shape for their sins. These black dogs are of all sorts and sizes, big dogs and little dogs, long haired dogs and short haired dogs, meek dogs and fierce dogs, but as a rule the standard specter hound is huge, most ferocious looking and shaggy like a wolf, and, we are told, packs of these hellhounds have been seen, sometimes hunted by a huntsman whose description much resembles the popular conception of the devil.

A famous story is told of a goblin hound which used to inhabit an old mansion at Lyme Regis, in Dorset, that had been partly demolished and turned into a farmhouse, in which lived an old drunken farmer. Having been urged to drive out the black dog by his companions, he seized the poker and rushed at the dog, which sprang up instantly and rushed upstairs, followed by the tipsy farmer. It fled into an attic and, hey presto, jumped clean through the ceiling. The angry farmer struck at the place, when, to his amazement, down fell from the hole he had made an old fashioned money box, which proved to be full of gold and silver coins of the reign of Charles I. The dog was never again seen in the house, but it is said to haunt a lane which leads to it, where it can be seen at midnight and which bears the name of "Dog lane," while a local inn displays the sign "The Black Dog Inn."

Lady Howard, who lived in the reign of the first James and was as famous for her wit as for her beauty and her wealth, was also possessed of a good many bad qualities. She had four husbands, whom she killed off rather rapidly, and was very cruel to her only daughter. For her sins she was transformed when she died—so the story runs—into a black dog, and at midnight she runs between Fitzford, her one time residence, and Oakhampton park in order to carry to the place from which she started a single blade of grass. This she is doomed to do until she has removed every blade of grass from the park.—London Globe.

Teachers' Rally

The first educational rally for the year will be held at Gettysburg, Friday evening and Saturday, October 13 and 14.

The evening session is being planned particularly for the citizens and teachers of Gettysburg and adjacent districts.

The Saturday sessions are more particularly for all the teachers of the county who can plan to attend. All teachers in attendance at the Saturday sessions will be entertained in the homes of the residents of the town.

Superintendent L. E. McGines, of Steelton, and Professor J. K. Stewart, of Shippensburg, have been engaged as speakers.

Teachers, if we will, we can make this the best ever.

The inspiration and direction warranted by the rally will vouchsafe a correct attitude toward the work of the profession.

Teachers will please notify Prof. Roy D. Knouse, of Gettysburg, of their intention to be in attendance.

Jack Frost will get you if you don't look out. Get into and under a cover of Munsing underwear and you can stand all the antics of winter. Why Munsingwear? Because of the high grade yarns used, the superior workmanship, finish and fit. Although elastic, Munsingwear does not stretch out of shape. Neither will it shrink if properly laundered. Munsingwear is in every way equal to and better than the best among all rivals. It's satisfactory throughout every moment of underwear wearing, and to the final hour of service. A trial means another friend for our underwear department.

An Invincible Baseball Team That Would Make All Other Clubs Bite the Dust

By TOMMY CLARK.

ALTHOUGH the curtain has been rung on the 1911 baseball season, the dyed in the wool fans will for some time to come be busily engaged in discussing the past performances of their favorites and selecting what would be the greatest teams that ever appeared on the diamond. Picking a team of all stars has become quite a fad with the fans during the last few years, and, although the men could not possibly be brought together on one team, it is interesting to the enthusiasts of our national game. Speaking about all star teams here is one that looks like the best yet discovered. We venture to say that this team placed against any single team of former stars as far as you want to go back would make them bite the dust:

Pitchers—Mathewson, Johnson, Alexander, Walsh, Rucker and Bender. Catchers—Bresnahan, Doolin and Archer.

First base—Lajoie. Second base—Collins. Shortstop—Wagner. Third base—Harry Lord. Outfielders—Clarke, Jackson and Cobb.

Manager—Frank Chance. Having got this out of our system, we now await criticism. Looking at it from all angles—viewed from an impartial side—it is really hard to see how this squad could be improved on. It would not be quite fair to make a selection—then run away without any explanations. So here are the reasons—in a nutshell—why each man was given this distinction.

Mathewson has been the mainstay of the Giants for eleven years, and although he is not as good today as he was a few years ago, he is still one of the greatest pitchers in the game. Take Johnson, the Washington's great pitcher—what a record he would make with a team like the above behind him. If it hadn't been for Walsh the Chicago White Sox would have come pretty near finishing in the cellar. Big Ed that it is of the sure enough stone wall variety.

Lajoie, although he made himself famous at second base, put up a brilliant article of ball at first station during the latter part of the season. And as a batter—well, enough said.

Collins of the Philadelphia Americans is easily the best second baseman in the game today.

Wagner at short—that's enough. Harry Lord of the Chicago Americans is given the place at third on account of his accurate playing and throwing to first.

Take the outfield. Clarke of Pittsburgh in left, Jackson of Cleveland in is the best spitball twirler that ever appeared on the mound. With a team of all stars it would be hard to conceive how he could lose a game. Rucker of Brooklyn is considered the best southpaw in the same today. How he would mow down the left hand hitters! Alexander of the Philadelphia Nationals has been the big sensation in the pitching department this season. For a newcomer his rise has been little short of amazing. Bender of the Athletics is one of the brainiest twirlers that ever graced the mound. A glance at the infield will reveal

TO THE VOTERS OF ADAMS COUNTY

I take this method of thanking the Republican voters for the honor of the nomination for Register and Recorder, at the recent primary election.

Owing to the physical disability of the Democratic nominee, I feel that the issue before the people would not be one of a political nature and in justice to Mr. Berkheimer, I feel it my duty to withdraw at this time, and thus save him the labor and expense of a campaign.

HAVE AIRY BEDROOMS.

No Farmer's Child Should Contract Consumption These Days.

There is little doubt that a large portion of the cases of tuberculosis among farmers has its origin in the low, close, unventilated sleeping rooms common in the story and a half dwelling. To save a little in the cost of lumber the farmer has, unwittingly no doubt, prepared conditions the most favorable for the development of germs, which may at any time find lodgment in the lungs of his children. A case is cited where four boys and girls, born of robust parents, but compelled to pass their nights in close, half story rooms, were carried off by consumption almost as soon as they reached maturity, while to their ancestry the disease was unknown. The so called bungalow type of dwelling is little more than a revival, under another name, of the old, plain, pestiferous story and a half dwelling.

If the owner will only sleep on its wide porch winter and summer he may afford to live in it. But to sleep in a room whose ceiling will not allow one to stand upright except on a limited portion of the floor and where the air space is totally insufficient for health is enough to commit slow suicide. If high ceilings are anywhere desirable, that "where" is in sleeping rooms.

A LESSON FROM JAPAN.

Only Big as Kansas, She Has More Than 4,000 Agricultural Schools.

Japan has about the area of Kansas, but her percentage of agricultural land is about that of New Hampshire. It doesn't look as if she would need many agricultural schools, does it? Most of her farms are so small that they would about make a stack yard for one of us.

Yet twenty-three years ago, says a Japanese writer in Hoard's Dairyman, Japan had six schools where farming was taught. And then came the twenty years of her most rapid progress. China was defeated in war and then the mighty Russia. The whole strength of the nation was expended on those things which would enable her to carry the awful load of army, navy and bonded debt. And what became of the six agricultural schools?

Instead of being allowed to dwindle they have multiplied, until in 1908 there were in Japan 4,375 agricultural schools!

In those schools were enrolled 182,200 pupils, and in that year there were graduated from these schools 93,406 children.

Fine West Virginia Horse Colts

Sucklings, Yearlings and Two and Three Year Olds,

Fresh Cows, Bulls and a few Beeves.

AT MY STABLES, LITTLESTOWN, PA.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14, '11

They come direct from West Virginia, the kind that always grow in value and demand the highest cash price. They are no bronchos, but the right kind to make heavy draft and fine drivers. Most of them are mare colts and will grow up and make fine brood mares. This is the only year for years that the Virginia farmers sell their colts on account of no feed. This is my eighth sale of colts this season and am glad to say that I have sold every head. No by-bidders, everybody bids for themselves at my sales. Will also have on the above date young February and March cows for farmers intending to have spring sales.

Sale to start at 1 o'clock p. m., rain or shine. Liberal credit will be given.
